LaTonya,

Ms. DeGregorio's understanding below is incorrect. EPA has not released any of the USGS off-site well test results to anyone, because we do not have them at this time. When and how we release this data will be determined by when we get the data from USGS, whether each individual well owner consented to having their data released to the public, and how management wants to handle the release.

Hi Dan,

Please see below and provide me with a response.

Thanks.

LaTonya,

It is my understanding that some of the private off site test completed by USGS has been released at the CAG meeting in Dec. 2012.

We have received a request from the community that EPA release the water data as it comes in from USGS.

Thank you.
